Introducing the Pebble Collection by Bjarke Ingels Group

A modern classic

Copenhagen, London and New York-based architecture firm Bjarke Ingels Group (BIG) is known worldwide for their innovative, sustainable and aesthetically modern approach to design. We have collaborated with BIG IDEAS, the technology-driven special projects division of BIG, on a bathroom series and matching lever handle.

Our collaboration with BIG has been a long-term goal for us, with two years of development. We pursued this project with the knowledge that it would bring about an exciting design and aesthetic addition to d line's significant product portfolio. Like our collections with Arne Jacobsen and Knud Holscher, our work with BIG has been created to be an enduring design classic; one that will look good in any property for decades to come.

BIG's pragmatic approach rooted in the beauty and simplicity of Scandinavian design has resulted in a collection that combines form and function for a sum that is greater than the parts.

The Pebble Collection is part of a larger collaboration with Bjarke Ingels Group that includes a state-of-the-art smart lock system operated via mobile phone. As a heritage design brand, d line is thrilled to be able to bring timeless quality and contemporary design to our audience.

Beauty and functionality in any space

The Pebble Collection includes a soap dispenser, shower shelf, towel rail, toilet brush, toilet roll holder, coat hook, lever handle, key escutcheon and thumb turn. The pieces are available in matt black, matt white and our signature finish; satin stainless steel.

The collection is playful and luxurious with each piece interacting with the room in a fluid way. The diverse array of items balance elliptical shapes while staying grounded with the tactile nature of the material.

"We are thrilled to follow in the footsteps of Arne Jacobsen and Knud Holscher in collaborating with d line on the creation of a family of products: the Pebble Collection. The new line of products – from the handle to the dispenser and knob – are about giving form to each of the different functions. The balancing elliptical shapes interact playfully with each other and its environment, creating highly tactile and functional objects that complement any interior. The Pebble Collection extends our vision in architecture from the big picture to the small details." Jakob Lange, Partner and Director of BIG Ideas, BIG - Bjarke Ingels Group.

Bringing d line into your home

We recommend the Pebble Collection for offices, retail spaces, hotels, restaurants and residential spaces. These are pieces that make a visual statement while underscoring the importance of good design and functionality.

This collection is especially relevant for private homes. With our focus on top-quality products and clean, visually engaging design, d line's work with BIG is perfect for those looking to bring aesthetics and functionality into every aspect of their lives.

As with all our products, this collection is sustainably-produced in our factory in Lithuania. Each item is handcrafted with 50 to 70 per cent recycled steel.

“Just as we did in the 1970s, d line is making a bold statement with both colour and shape with our BIG collection. As we shift our gaze towards a more international outlook, we are excited to include more privately-owned spaces into our portfolio, truly making us a brand for those wanting a Scandinavian and design-focused lifestyle.” - Søren Blangsted, CEO, d line.

About d line

d line is a heritage Danish design brand conceiving and hand crafting enduring architectural hardware, sanitary ware and solutions for barrier-free living.

Launched in 1971 with the coordinated line of stainless steel architectural products Knud Holscher created for St Catherine's College Oxford, d line has since collaborated with iconic Danish designers including Arne Jacobsen. The brand's ambition is to be universally known, coveted and admired for the uncompromising endurance of its design, craftsmanship and quality.
